U.S. Board Says Slump About Over

Six-Month Drop In Production Ends Past Month

WASHINGTON (AP) -The Federal Reserve Board reported Thursday that Feb. ruary produced signs that a six-month business decline is at, or near, an end.

Republican congressional leaders also saw growing light in the economic skies—but they quickly claimed President Kennedy's program had nothing to do with the clearing up. In fact, the GOP spokesmen said, enactment of some of the administration pro-posals might make the clouds gather anew.

GOOD NEWS

The reserve board's chief good news item was that February brought a halt in the unbroken six-month drop in over-all indus trial production. Standing at 102 per cent of the 1957 average, the output of mines, mills and facto-ries was unchanged from January of 1961 although still far below the 111 per cent record high of January 1960.

The board's monthly "National Summary of Business Conditions" also noted a few other bright spots including higher retail sales volume; increased commercial bank credit and money supply; higher stock marke prices and an upturn in iron and steel output and in production of television sets, radios and some appliances.

Partially offsetting these credit items were further declines in automobile, auto parts and furniture manufacturing and in over-all building activity, despite a slight pickup in housing starts.

Over-all, the board's report of fered no solid evidence that a business recovery is under way. The new figures suggested however, that the recession cycle is mearing its bottom or has reached it. It served to buoy the hopes of government economists that a recovery will start in earnest this icy meeting.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the House minority leader, read the statement, which said. The main thing we have to fear today about the recession is some of the proposals to cure it."

He said, "Excessive government spending could severely im-(Continued on Page Two-A)

By a vote of 74-0 with nine abstentions, the assembly approved a resolution that criticized South African moves toward annexation of the huge territory on Africa's southwest coast—a former League of Nations mandate.

The action came on the heels of South Africa's decision to with-draw from the British Commonwealth because of criticism of its white supremacy policies. There was speculation that South Africa also might withdraw from the United Nations.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy Thursday struck his head on a table and suffered a cut over his left eye when he tried to pick up something for his 3-year-old daughter Caroline.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinder said the President did not require any stitches in the wound.

Kennedy showed up at his of fice with a small bandage over his eye. He took it off for a ceremony commemorating the birth of Italy as a state but it was back again for a session marking Girl Scout week.

"How's the eye," a reporter asked.

"Fine," the President replied. Asked what he had picked up for Caroline, Kennedy laughed, shrugged slightly and walked back

Springtime Is Here

Some like it hot and some like it cold, so that is the way we get it — the weather, that is. Seasons change and always there are some who are delighted with the change and others who are not so well pleased. Right now spring is upon us and it is beautiful.

Man is more than not a contrary animal and there is something about the weather that always seems to rile his nature. We have an idea, however, that this would be worsened, and not improved, if man could control the weather. The way it is, we just grumble and take it, but if we could control the weather there would be endless arguments over what it should be.

Winter is especially trying on some and this has been particularly true of the winter just passed. Since last October hardly a day has passed that we haven't had cause to cuss the state of the atmosphere or to snarl at forecasts of things to come. It's been something of an endless round of cold spells and wet spells, with just enough good days thrown in to make us realize we don't like the Soon it will be summer — good old summer, hot old summer. These will be the days when we used to think of the office as an oven, the bedroom a furnace. Enterprising reporters will fry an egg on the sizzling pavement. These will be the days when we used to come to work reluctantly and to go home exhausted.

With beautiful spring upon us and hot summer approaching we can look upon these things complacently. Redbuds and flowering quinces, purple magnolias and tulip trees, camellias and crabapples, narcissuses and daffodils, flowering peach, pear and apple trees, azaleas bursting forth in all of their magnificent glory, dogwood trails and azalea trails, the whole creation in bloom, with the newborn days" right now.

grass green and lush and beautiful—these things are here ready to greet spring when it arrives. They tell us that the world is good and that mankind and every living creature should know spring is the time for beauty and rejoic-

Who cares that hot summer will soon be here? Most of us work in air-conditioned offices and when we go home we find houses that are cooled by air-conditioning or attic fans or window fans. There is little sweltering because we can almost always find air that is cool or a breeze that is blowing, even though the breeze may be one created by man's initiative. If we walk out into the sweatering weather for a short time we are out only long enough to get up a healthy perspiration that helps us to enjoy the coolness even more when we reach it.

Gone are the days when people used to freeze in winter time and roast in the summer. Time was when folks rode in open buggies or on horseback in the wintertime and were drenched when it rained and practically turned into icicles when the weather was frigid. Now they ride in weather-proof, heated cars. They stay dry as if they were inside their own homes and they never get cold, because all they have to do to keep warm enough is to turn a little knob in the car.

We can still complain about the weather but what's the use. Regardless of how the weather is, we can be just about as warm as we want to be and just as cool as we want to be.

Seasons still change but the drabness of winter only makes us realize more fully the beauty of spring. Summer gives us long days in which to enjoy the outdoors and fall gives us more radiant colors in the forests than an artist can paint.

We are having "the good old

Who Is 'Best Man'?

In defending his selection of his brother, Robert, as attorney general of the United States, President John F. Kennedy almost makes it look as if Robert should have been the one who was elected president.

President Kennedy, in an article appearing in a leading magazine of nationwide circulation, said:

"In planning, getting the right people to work and seeing that the job is done, Robert Kennedy is the best man in the United States."

Under that definition, it would seem that Robert Kennedy is the one who should be president.

In this respect, however, President Kennedy is not too much different from former President Eisenhower. For a long time President Eisenhower touted his brother, Milton, so highly that some people began to wonder if the president thought Milton had more sense than he had. President Eisenhower acted more on his own initiative and with better results. Now it looks as if President Kennedy is building Robert up so tall that he will look bigger than the president. Defending Robert's lack of legal experience, the president insisted that adminstrative ability is the most important qualification for the job. President Kennedy lashed out at critics who "tried to make a federal case out of the fact that Bobby had no courtroom experience. Continuing, he said:

"The basic requirement for the job is not that at all. It is the ability to administer a great department.

"In 1952, when I first ran for the senate, we were in a tough fight. It was essential that we set up our own organization in every community across the state. My campaign manager had a pretty tough job trying to do it. Then Bobby came in and did the job in three weeks."

The president credited his brother's organizational abilities with being the big difference between his campaign last fall and Adlai Stevenson's in 1956. He noted he did not have to worry about anything except what he was going Although President Kennedy has made Robert look bigger than himself, the nation is fortunate that Robert was not the one who was elected president. Robert is more ruthless and may be more interested in setting up a family dynasty to rule the country. He does not have much regard for ethics and is less interested than the president in following the law and the constitution. These things he would adapt to his own use.

These are some of the reasons President Kennedy may have made a mistake in appointing his bro-

Kennedy 'Birthday Dinners'

Democratic National Committee Invoking President In Role Of Mid-Year Santa Claus To Help Pay Debt

The Democratic National Committee is invoking President Kennedy in a new role - as a midyear Santa Claus to help pay off some $3 million still owing from last year's campaign.

For this purpose, a series of big fund - raising dinners will be staged on and around his May 29 birthday in a score or more major cities.

The President himself has already agreed to address two of them; a $100-a-plate gathering in Washington on May 27, and a similar affair in Boston on May 29. A goal of 10,000 tickets has been set for them.

Vice President Johnson also will probably address two of these fund - raising events, in cities still to be agreed on. At least one of them will be in Texas.

Former President Truman, Cabtration notables will do the honors in other places. Definitely not among these fund raisers are Secretary of State Dean Rusk; Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon,

Income Tax People Banging Away At Cruises, Other Journeys

(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America) The treasury is banging away at cruises and conventions from two directions. If you pay your own way, the Treasury is increasingly reluctant to share your costs by way of a business deduction for your expenses. If you are given the trip or cruise as a reward for services, the Treasury wants you to pay income tax on it.

Many trips to resort areas and cruises are organized for professionals or businessmen, with specific provision for professional or business discussions during the period. If you deduct the costs of one of these trips or cruises as a professional or business expense, there is a strong probablilty that your return will be picked up for examination. The examining agent will either try to knock out the deduction altogether or to chop it down to a minute size on the ground that is primarily a personal vacation expense.

Resort trips and cruises also are being used more and more by business firms as a reward for salesmen and distributors who meet certain sales quotas.

In lots of cases, companies also permit the wives of the winners to go along and the companies pick up their tabs as well. The trips or cruises usually include a number of training and business sessions for the participants in addition to providing plenty of free

If you're a salesman or distributor and you've won a trip of this sort, you undoubtedly have liked the whole thing because it was all on the house - and if you're competing for this sort of reward now, the apparent tax-free angle has seemed a distinct plus. But your attitude may change if you have to report the value of such trips as income and pay tax on themand this is exactly what the Treasury is demanding.

The Treasury claims there is no difference between rewarding an employe by giving him a cash bonus — which is clearly tax-able income — or a trip which is worth the amount of the cash

So far this issue has been fought out in two courts with the Treasury winning one case and the salesman winning the other.

The Treasury victory came over a life insurance agent who worked for a Texas life insurance company which did business in that and neighboring states.

By meeting a certain sales quota, the agent qualified to attend a convention held by his firm in New York City and was allowed to take his wife along. The trip covered five or six days, but only one morning session was devoted to business. The Treasury valued the trip at $540 and taxed the agent on that amount as though it were an equivalent cash bonus paid to him.

The court agreed. It conceded that a free trip to a business meet-ing designed to train and in-struct employes wouldn't be tax able to the employes. But the real question here was whether this trip was truly for a business meeting or only another way of paying the salesman for doing his job effectively. The court felt that a business meeting is normally held in the firm's home territory and that a meeting far from home could be presumed to be primarily for pleasure. This also was indicated by the fact that the trip was a kind of reward only for those agents who reached specified goals. The Treasury tried the same approach on a salesman for another life insurance company, but in this case the court refused to treat the trip as income. The difference may be that in this second instance the company held its meeting closer to home territory and devoted considerably more time to training sessions.

To the countless thousands of businessmen and hundreds of thousands of employes intimately concerned with the tax angles of cruise and convention trips, the distinctions in the court decisions should carry some intriguing implications.

Tomorrow: Casualty losses.

Settlement House On New York's Lowest East Side Valuable

Everyday something comes in here that is interesting, exciting, dull or hateful. An interesting letter came from Sam Engler to remind me of the Educational Alliance, a Settlement House on the lower East Side of New York which produced, over the years, a galaxy of valuable citizens, many of whom, such as Eddie Cantor and David Sarnoff, have become household names. As I look over the list of youngsters of my time who found their careers and personalities in the Educational Alliance, there stands Sir Jacob Epstein, the great British sculptor. Sir Jacob was an East Side boy who came to the Alliance to draw and sculpt. These were poor boys - all of them - and our parents were immigrants from Eastern Europe which was as disturbed then as it

In the muck and truck that was the East Side of New York, which mothered gangs and mobs, there stood this building where anyone who wanted to expand his personality and give vent to his talent had an opportunity.

There are youngsters these days who talk about the breaks. None of us had any breaks. None of us had any economic security or expected ever to have. We had our choice as children to play on the sidewalks, to join gangs, to steal and burgle or to go to some such place as the Educational Alliance and do something useful and exciting.

One thinks, for instance, of Eddie Cantor as an actor. I never do or can. I think of Eddie Cantor as a person who devoted his life to good works. We were kids and the Summer was hot. We had never seen grass except in a city park and although we knew what milk is, we had never seen a cow. Some of us were asked if we cared to go to the country for two weeks. There were no charges but the expenses were high, as we had to buy a toothbrush and toothpaste and bathing trunks. This all costs money and it took some negotiating to get the dollar or two that was required for expenses because none of us had dollars.

Whenever I hear these days of the underprivileged who get free milk and free orange juice and perhaps a hot meal at school, I wonder how anyone can be underprivileged who gets so much. For us, there was a joy in the discovery of new worlds and the camp up on Surprise Lake was something never to be forgotten. We slept in tents and ate on a pavilion and had to do the chores, but at night we sat around a camp fire, singing songs. And perhaps we were a little afraid of the darkness and the quiet and the hoot-owl, because we were accustomed to city noises. It was this camp that had the most profound influence on my life and I know what it did for Eddie, a tubercular little boy who slept in a cellar. It made of him a philanthropist because Eddie's work has been to keep this camp growing and expanding. Eddie has never forgotten the day we took a train up to Cold Spring far from the East Side and we saw our first snake and caught our first cat-fish.

Everyday we lived intensely and everyday we discovered something new over at the Alliance. For instance, one day, a man dressed in white came to se us. We were told that he was famous. He amused us and laughed. We had given a performance of a play he had written, 'The Prince and the Pauper.' We were told that his name was Mark Twain and so we came close to the hem of authentic greatness.

There is so much to tell of the Educational Alliance and of those early days, more than half a century ago when we were small children, unafraid, sure of ourselves, possessing few of the material things of life, but grateful to have a place to go where there were books, and games and art and clubs and all the doors that opened new worlds to us. The old building still stands but they are going to enlarge it. A new generation of youngsters is ready to march through its portals to discover that life can be full and

WASHINGTON SHORTS

THE SOCIAL HOUR - After Rep. and Mrs. Clark Thompson gave a lavish party for Speaker Sam Rayburn the Texas Congressman saw fit to write about it in his letter to constituents. The fact that President Kennedy previously had been criticized for serving iquor at the White House might have had something to do with it. Thompson wrote: "We had quite a barbecue at our house a few nights ago. At least had we pulled off such a thing in Texas, would have been a barbecue. Down there in our country, it is customary to give such an affair when you want to show hospitality to somebody. Folks gather around and visit with each other, shake hands with the honor guest and with the host and hostess and, in general, have a nice sociable time. In Washington, they give these affairs for a similar purpose but with a little different name.

Madonna Icon Still Weeping After Months

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) One of the three weeping Madonna icons of Long Island, which teuched off a wave of religious fervor last year, is still weeping 10 months after it began, it was disclosed Thursday.

The phenomenon of the weeping icons was commemorated Thurs day morning by a special service at St. Paul's Greek Orthodox Church to mark the first anniversary of its occurrence. It was conducted by Archbishop Iakovos. primate of the Greek Archdiocese of North and South America.

Mrs. Pagona Catsounis, a young housewife of Island Park, N.Y. first noticed tears welling in the eyes of the Madonna's picture as she prayed in her home last March 16. This picture was taken to St. Paul's where it wept for three-and-a-half days.

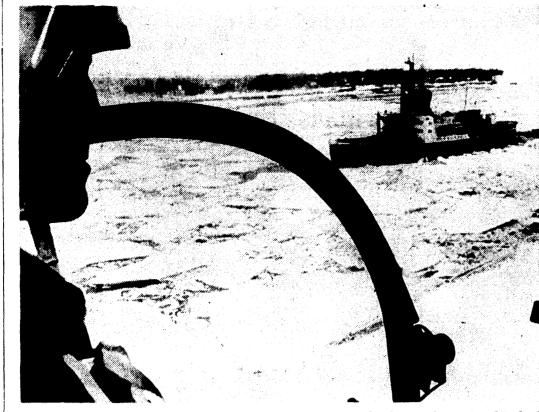

On April 12, a Madonna in the home of Mrs. Catsounis' aunt, Mrs. Peter Koulis, began to weep and it wept profusely for six weeks. This Madonna was taken to the church and the archdiocese gave Mrs. Koulis another icon in its place. A church spokesman said this icon has been weeping continuously in Mrs. Koulis' New York apartment since May 13.

Barbecue Kicks Off Northeast's Clinic Tonight

High school and college football coaches of this area will be guests of the Boosters Club of Northeast Louisiana State at a barbecue supper scheduled tonight at Bancroft's Camp on Cheniere lake.

The supper will serve as a get - acquainted gathering for guest lecturers, college officials, and the area coaches before the first annual Northeast State spring football clinic Saturday.

Guest lecturers for the Saturday clinic expected to be in attendance at the barbecue tonight are John Bridgers, athletic director and head football coach at Baylor University, and Charles McClendon and George Terry, assistant football coaches at Louisiana State University.

The annual Northeast introsquad football game, concluding spring training, will be a closing feature of the clinic Saturday night. The actual clinic program begins Saturday morning with the welcoming address by Dr. George T. Walker, college president, at 8:15 o'clock at tice for the Tulane Green Wave.

Chemical "policeman" in today's Super Shell guards against gum-fouled carburetors -to give your car top performance

One special ingredient among the 9 in Super Shell is a gum preventive.

Like a policeman dealing with a mob, it works to keep unstable elements from clotting together. Hence no gum problem. Result: top performance.

MAGINE an ingredient so effective that I only one thousandth of an ounce is enough to treat a gallon of gasoline.

This tiny drop is all today's Super Shell needs to stave off gum troubles that can hamper your car's performance.

Gum forms when even the purest gasolines are held in storage. Unstable elements in the fuel combine chemically with oxygen and with each other. The latter is what scientists call polymerization (a good thing if you want to make plastics, but not if you want top performance from your gasoline). Shell tackles the situation with a special inhibitor that is designed to keep gum from becoming a problem.

Where the trouble strikes

Gum usually ends up on sensitive carburetor parts, where it can foul the automatic choke and raise hob with your air-fuel mixture.

Too rich a mixture can waste gallons of gasoline. Too weak a mixture can burn valves. Either way, gum troubles are likely to cost you considerable money.

In extreme cases, gum can even stick your intake valves. This means a rough and noisy engine—lost power—and perhaps even a very expensive repair job.

To say that Super Shell's chemical "policeman" protects your pocketbook is an understatement.

How the "policeman" works

Shell's special ingredient is an oxidation inhibitor. It helps keep unstable elements in the gasoline from sticking together—just the way a skilled policeman prevents trouble by keeping a crowd from forming. As a result your engine is cleaner, for maximum power, maximum mileage; in fact top performance.

This is just one of the special jobs done by the 9 ingredients in Super Shell to give your car top performance. You owe it to your car and your pocketbook to learn what each of the others can do for you, too.

Ingredient #2 is TCP for power, mileage and longer plug-life

Super Shell now contains an even better version of this famous additive. Its chemical name is cresyl-diphenyl-phosphate.

TCP* additive can give your car up to 15 per cent more power; up to 17 extra miles per tankful; and can make plugs last up to twice as long.

New TCP does this by neutralizing certain harmful effects of combustion deposits. It is scientifically formulated to keep them from glowing when hot—a major cause of power loss. Also from diverting your spark—a major cause of "missing."

Ingredient #3 is "cat-cracked" gasoline for power with a purr

This is petroleum that has actually cracked under 900-degree heat and catalytic action. Its heavier molecules have been shattered into livelier, lighter ones.

The result is a super-octane ingredient that makes your engine purr with power the moment you put your foot down.

NOTE: "Cat-cracking" refers to the use of a catalyst-the mysterious substance that can alter molecules without changing itself.

Ingredient #4 is Alkylate, noted for knock control in hot engines

Jimmy Doolittle helped pioncer this outstanding high-octane ingredient for Shell aviation fuel.

Alkylate—the ingredient that took the Shell's Jimmy Doolittle in the days when 100octane gasoline was still a scientist's dream.

dream of 100-octane gasoline out of the lab and put it into the skies-is now in Super Shell. It controls knocking in hot engines at high speeds better than anything else yet available.

NOTE: Speaking of controlling knocks at high speeds, remember that car engines fre-

Array of typical engine parts which could be affected by gum. Absence of gum preventive in gasoline can cause trouble in the carburetor (center) and on intake valves (bottom).

You can forget this ugly picture if you fill up with today's Super Shell. It shows the actual gum that could form in your fuel system if you used a gasoline that didn't contain an efficient gum preventive. Imagine what this gum could do inside your carburetor. The thought is horrible.

quently turn even faster than the engines of a DC-7. Think of this next time you pass another car.

Ingredient #5 is anti-knock mix for extra resistance to knocks

You'd think that two high-octane ingredients would be enough for knock-free performance. But Shell's scientists have ears like

They insist on adding a special antiknock mix. A mix so effective that one teaspoon per gallon can boost anti-knock rating by five points.

This mix has the tricky job of regulating combustion so that Super Shell gives each piston a firm, even push-rather than a sharp blow which would cause a knock.

Ingredient #6 is Butane for quick starts on cold mornings

Butane is so eager to get going that Shell keeps it under pressure 400 feet below ground to stop it from vaporizing by itself. Think what this extra volatility means in cold weather. Your engine fires in seconds. There is less strain on your battery. And none on your patience.

NOTE: Super Shell is primed with Butane all year round. In winter, Shell scientists simply increase the quick-start dosc.

Ingredient #7 is Pentane mix for fast warm-ups on cold days

Pentanes are made by tearing gasoline apart, much as you split kindling to start a log fire. In this case, the "logs" are petroleum's heavier hydrocarbons. A special process transforms their molecules from slow-· burning "logs" into the quicker-firing

NET RESULT: Fast warm-up and top performance in a hurry.

"kindling."

where the trouble starts. Ice forms on your throttle plate. Today's Super Shell gets to the root of this problem.

Ingredient #8 is an "anti-icer" to check cold-weather stalling

Super Shell's formula is adjusted as often as eight times a year to beat the weather. For example, whenever the temperature is likely to be less than forty-five degrees, a carburetor anti-icer is added.

Why add anti-icer at forty-five degrees? Because, even then, frost can form in your carburetor just as it does in your refrigerator. It can choke your engine dead.

Ingredient #9 is Platformate for extra energy, more mileage

It takes more than eight million dollars' worth of platinum catalyst for Shell to produce Platformate. But fortunately for you and for us, this precious stuff can be used over and over again.

The platinum re-forming process, which gives Platformate its odd name, converts petroleum into super-energy components such as benzene, xylene and toluene.

These three alone release 11 per cent more useful energy per gallon than the best 100-octane aviation gasoline.

But make no mistake. This is not untamed energy. Far from it. The super-energy of Platformate is harnessed by the eight other ingredients in Super Shell, where it behaves so well you scarcely know it's there. That is until you note your extra mileage. After that, there is no doubt.

Test Super Shell for yourself

Try Super Shell next time you fill up. You'll soon feel and hear a difference in the way your engine runs.

That difference is top performance.

U.S. Shows New African Policy Shift

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)

—The United States has given two dramatic pieces of evidence in 24 hours that the Kennedy administration is embarking on a new African policy.

If the signs are correct—and most U. N. diplomats think they are-the United States undoubtedly will win new friends. But it also may alienate some old ones.

It is not yet clear just how farreaching the changes are, but the new U. S. position indicates a break with the big Western allies on some colonial issues and a swing toward the views of the new Asian and African countries

The first major step in this di rection came Wednesday night in N. Security Council when the chief U.S. delegate, Adlai E Stevenson, lined up with the Soviet Union and three Asian-Afri can delegations on a resolution calling for reforms in Portuguese

In the past, the United States had almost always voted with its North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies on colonial issues. On this question, however, the Unit ed States not only split with Brit ain and France but it sharply challenged Portugal's attitude of noncooperation with the United Nations on its African territories.

States once more found itself at odds with Britain, France, Portugal and Belgium on a resolution censuring the Union of South Africa for its attitude on the territory of Southwest Africa, a former League of Nations mandate. The United States voted for the proposal, while the four NATO countries-along with five other countries-abstained.

This vote and the one on Angola are in sharp contrast with the U.S. vote last fall on a resolution calling for an end of colonialism as soon as possible. On that occasion, much to the annoyance of Asian and African countries, the United States was one of nine abstainers. It has since learned that ex-President Dwight D. Eisenhower took the unpopular position after receiving a strong personal appeal from British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Castro May Sever West German Ties

HAVANA (UPI) - Informed sources expressed belief Thursday the Fidel Castro regime is aiming at a break in relations with Bonn to facilitate diplomatic and trade ties with Communist East Germany.

Diplomatic observers consider the anti-Bonn trend was foreshadowed in Premier Castro's long television speech last Monday night when he attacked "German warmongers and militarists. This was followed by Wednesday's expulsion of West German Embassy Secretary Eberhard F.

Baumann on charges he entered a rented beach house which had been sealed by government au-Baumann was expelled although West German Ambassador Count Carl Spreti had warned his expulsion would prove a "serious impediment" to Cuban-German trade relations.

Baumann's expulsion coincides with a visit by two Cuban cabinet members to East Germany, seeking an airlines accord between the two nations as well as increased East German technical aid for Cuba.

Cuba was reported on the verge of formally recognizing the East German regime last year when it established diplomatic relations with all other Communist bloc nations. However, it backtracked on the decision after it became clear! any recognition of East Germany would mean a rupture with the Bonn regime.

Although West Germany's trade volume with Cuba has dropped from an annual value of some $30 million to $11 million, the country still is Western Europe's principal Cuban customer.

Lenten Message

RICHARD CARDINAL

CUSHING Archbishop of Boston

(Written for UPI) The holy season of Lent is a me of prayer and penance in and death of Our Blessed Lord. We all had a part in His agony in the Garden of Gethsemane, in His crucifixion and in all the phases of the tragedy of Calvary. He died for the sins of all manpassion and death.

During the holy season of Lent we are expected to make reparation for our guilt and to pledge our loyalty to Christ and Him crucified by avoiding sin in the future. The test of our sorrow for sin is our purpose of amend-

Recipe Calls For 2 Kinds Of Seafood

"It's fish and seafood time," the National Fisheries Institute reminds us.

Distributors of fishery products know from experience that, during the six weeks of Lent, Americans accent their menus with seafoods of all kinds, so that grocery stores, supermarkets and fish dealers are well-stocked with frozen, canned and fresh fish and shellfish.

With interest high in seafood dishes, the recipe below using two seafood is especially timely. Although the recipe call for flaking cooked fish fillets, any canned fish may be used.

SCALLOPED FISH TOPPED WITH SHRIMP

1 package frozen fish fillets (cod, haddock, ocean perch, flounder or sole)

3 tablespoons butter or marga 2 slices of onion, minced

- 14 cup finely chopped celery 14 cup chopped green pepper 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup milk 12 teaspoon salt
- 14 teaspoon pepper 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- I cup buttered bread crumbs 14 to 1/2 cup grated cheese 14 lb. cooked and cleaned trying it in our own kitchen. We hurry to pass along the recipe to all hostesses who are tired peel of serving the perennial chocolate fudge, caramel or butterscotch creations over ice cream. This sauce takes little time to prepare, and there's no chance of your failing with it. All you have to do is to cook prepared orange peel and crystalized ginger in a mixture of corn syrup, sugar and water for about 10 minutes. When the sauce has cooled and is ready to be served, almonds are added. If any sauce is leftover, refrigerate it in a tightly covered jar. We've kept the sauce as long as a month this way. All that happens during this cold stay is that the orange peel gets interestingly chewy and the almonds less crunchy. If you store ice cream in your freezer regularly, you'll have a great dessert on hand to serve your most sophisticated

The almonds for this sauce should be blanched, sliced or slivered and toasted. To blanch the nuts, cover them with boiling water and allow them to stand for 3 to 5 minutes, then drain. To pop off the skins, press each warm wet nut at the pointed end between your thumb and forefinger.
While the almonds are still warm and moist from blanching, go to work on them with a sharp knife.
